

STACIE MCCORMICK

(b. Los Angeles, California) is a multi-disciplined artist based in London, UK.

“My painting practice is a meditation and study of gestural process painting, that is deeply interested in creating paintings that allow the viewer to enter a space, move through the mark making as objects in space allowing a liquid stop action to engage the viewer to see the movement and spend time with it. It is principally a meditative act of engaging with time, materials and permission to allow something to become.”
